

FOR THE EU'S ECONOMY, BREXIT IS LIKE THE EU28 BECOMING THE EU10

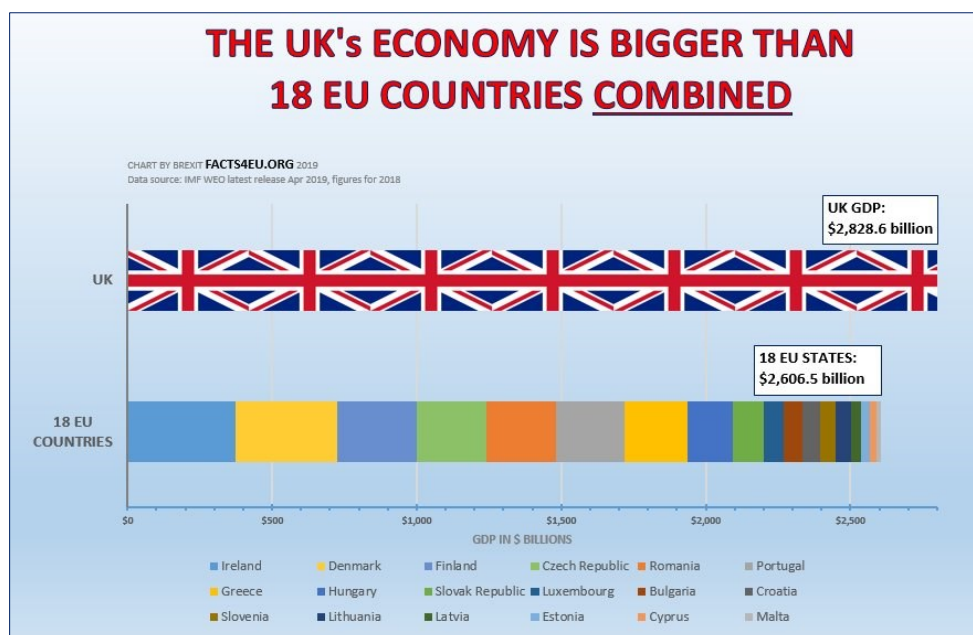

A Brexit Facts4EU.Org economic factsheet

The 19 smallest countries would have to leave, before the EU's economy would shrink smaller than it will after Brexit

Every April the IMF releases its official annual figures for the size of the world's economies. For the third year in a row, we show just what a massive impact Brexit makes on the EU's economic size.

- The UK's economy is bigger than 18 EU member countries – COMBINED
- Only if 19 other EU member states left simultaneously, would the EU's total economy be smaller than it will be when the UK leaves
- In effect, Brexit is economic equivalent of the EU28 becoming the EU10

The public is told that the UK is of little importance to the EU as it is only one out of 28 members.

In economic terms our bargaining power is more than if 18 EU member states left at once.
